ABOUT LWC

Since LWC was founded nearly fifty years ago, wine has been an important part of our offering to customers, and the last four years have seen our sales of wine double to £120m.

Sourced from 17 countries, each of the 900 wines in our range is selected carefully and developed in close collaboration with wineries to ensure it meets the highest standards of quality, value and presentation. We now have over 30 wine specialists across the country tasked with supporting our customers in developing their wine offering. Whether delivering training for your staff in one of the wine rooms in our depots or bringing you up to speed with local trends, their focus is on making sure your wine list works for your customers and your business.

This expertise and range is backed up with award-winning service from our 18 depots, delivering daily to 14,000 outlets from our fleet of 192 vehicles. Each depot has its own telesales, logistics and account management teams, giving us nationwide reach with a local feel and no reliance on a centralised call centre or third-party delivery services.

LWC remains an independent business – our ownership of our depots and vehicles ensures we have control of every step of the supply chain, meaning we're robust, responsive and ready to support your business in the long term.

This independence flows through to our range: our buying team aren't bound by agencies or investment, so can focus on selecting wines that deliver for our customers.

CUSTOMER TESTIMONIALS

We're proud of our service, delivering wine to 8,000 customers each week.

"I have been using LWC for over 12 years whilst owning the Cavendish Arms. Throughout this time I have had the same Account Manager... I truly believe that our Account Manager has my best business interests at heart.

The services received are always of the highest level, even down to Karl, our delivery person, who stacks our order meticulously. The wines in our portfolio have been hand-picked with much advice from the gifted and talented wine experts... It is a credit to LWC that after 20 years, I am still dealing with the same team to look after all of my needs here at The Cavendish Arms. Long may it continue."

The Cavendish Arms, Cartmel

"Working with the team at LWC is brilliant. Not only are they thoroughly knowledgeable about their products and the industry as a whole, but they are also easy to approach and deal with from a personal perspective as well. The huge range of beverages that LWC offers means that hitting various price points across our offering is an easy task.

When we needed a range of premium wines for a fine-dining restaurant, LWC were able to fulfil in everything, from the pouring wines up to and including high-end selections, and very specific wines that were handpicked by our owner. The service offered is second to none, from ordering all the way through to delivery, with each stage professional and helpful."

Carden Park Hotel & Spa, Cheshire

"Fantastic service; they will always do their best to accommodate any requests. Deliveries are consistently made on time by helpful drivers. LWC's willingness to help train our staff on our products is an amazing asset to our business, including, but not limited to, pairing wines against our food menus and sending staff on WSET courses.

In this current climate, hospitality can be challenging at times, so it is important to have a great relationship with one of your main suppliers. LWC gives a personable experience that will be tailored to your needs and will help and work with you where they can, to benefit your business."

OUR ACHIEVEMENTS

Recently, we have been recognised by several major wine competitions.

SOMMELIER WINE AWARDS VALUE MERCHANT OF THE YEAR 2025

"A clear winner in this field, LWC took this award last year and held onto its crown, for an array of wines that were deemed to be of true value for the price, helping hard-pressed on-trade operators protect their wafer-thin margins."

HARPERS WINE & SPIRIT NO. 4 TOP 50 WHOLESALEERS 2025

"As the UK's largest independent drinks wholesaler, serving more than 15,000 hospitality venues, LWC manages the neat trick of providing a very personal and customer-led focus to its accounts, all while effecting a typically seamless delivery service from its state-of-the-art depots around the UK. Judges were particularly impressed with LWC's wine programme - a category where it sees much potential for margin and growth for its clients."

CHAMPAGNE

The northernmost wine-producing region in France, Champagne produces sparkling wines of exceptional quality and heritage which are sought after around the world.

Strict and comprehensive appellation guidelines regulate almost every aspect of how Champagne is produced, leading to wines of a very consistent style and quality. LWC works closely with smaller producers to bring new, exciting Champagnes into the UK whilst maintaining strong relationships with large producers to ensure we continue to secure strong pricing and large allocations for our customers. In years when the quality is exceptional, houses may produce vintage Champagne or a prestige cuvée made from their very best grapes. These are produced in limited amounts – ask your Wine Development Manager to see what we have available.

Pol Roger Château | Champagne

CASTELNAU

Champagne Castelnau was founded in 1916 to honour the victor of the Lorraine and Champagne battles during WW1: Général de Castelnau. They are a boutique brand specialising in long ageing on the lees – twice the usual ageing time of 6 years for Brut Réserve and 12 years for the Vintages.

The results are a range of deep, complex, yet refined and fresh Champagnes.

Champagne De Castelnau Brut N/V | 49251019

Lively but gentle with stone-fruit notes, more clearly defined as hints of apricot and white peach, leading to touches of bay, eucalyptus and blond tobacco on the finish.

1 Ve

Champagne De Castelnau Rosé | 49251020

Notes of sweets and crystallised fruits linger, lifted by a touch of eau-de-vie of cherries from the Pinot Noir as befits a true rosé.

1 Ve

Champagne De Castelnau Vintage | 49270800

This is an ethereal wine, showing delicate notes of spice and roasting coffee on the nose, then giving way to a richer, more generous and more voluptuous impression on the palate than expected. Hints of citrus, almond, and baked fruit. The structure is warm and open, with a nice, lifted, faintly toasty note on the finish.

1 Ve

TAITTINGER

Taittinger is the third oldest producer in the Champagne region, dating back to 1734. After several decades of non-family ownership, Pierre-Emmanuel Taittinger bought back the house in 2006, starting a new era for the house with a highly motivated and talented young team including many family members. The Taittinger family are working to preserve the heritage of the brand whilst ensuring quality and consistency.

Taittinger Brut | 49270648

Taittinger Brut Réserve defines the Taittinger house style. Dry, light and graceful with small, fine bubbles. Fresh citrus fruit and subtle, weightier notes of peach and brioche combine to provide elegance in a glass.

Also available in 1.5l

Presented in an 18th Century antique style bottle, is a hand-crafted Champagne, enhanced by 5 years ageing on the lees in the cellars at Saint-Nicaise in Reims together with 5% being aged in new French oak barrels.

CHAMPAGNE DE SAINT- GALL

Union Champagne is a co-operative of growers with holdings across Champagne, a high proportion of which are Premier or Grand Cru.

Much of the harvest each year is sold to well-known Champagne houses to produce their wines but they keep back a small amount of their best-quality fruit to make wines for their own house, De Saint-Gall.

LWC are proud to exclusively represent these exceptional wines in the UK on-trade.

Champagne De Saint-Gall | 42005310
Le Tradition Premier Cru
Also available in 37.5cl

Many of Union Champagne's growers are located in the Côte des Blancs and their Chardonnay makes up the majority of the blend for this award-winning Champagne, giving a bright citrussy nose.

The addition of 37% reserve wines gives intensity and depth to the wine and extended lees ageing gives beautiful notes of toasted brioche. Refined, elegant and perfectly balanced, this Champagne is perfect as an aperitif or to pair with sushi.

PROSECCO

Prosecco is made from Glera grapes in northeast Italy where the climate is temperate, with cold, wet winters and hot, dry summers. The two delimited regions are Prosecco DOC, covering a wide area of the Veneto and Friuli, and the higher-quality DOCG, located between the two Venetian towns, Conegliano and Valdobbiadene.

Typically produced by the tank method, Proseccos have medium acidity with fresh aromas of green apple and melon. Though similarly sorted into Brut, Extra Dry and Dry styles, they are slightly higher in residual sugar than Champagne and are best consumed young and fresh. The UK is the largest consumer of Prosecco outside its native country; it has become a cultural staple for Brits. A recent change to official rules allowing the production of Prosecco DOC Rosé (a combination of Glera and Pinot Noir), together with Britain's love of fizz and an ever-growing trend towards anything pink, has provided a perfect platform for the much-longed-for Pink Prosecco.

PROSECCO I CASTELLI

In the 1520s, Luigi Da Porto wrote the first draft of his novella, Historia novellamente ritrovata di due giovani amanti. From his villa in Montorso Vicentino, he could see the two castles of Montecchio Maggiore, inspiring the rival families that would later become the Montagues and Capulets when William Shakespeare reimagined the work for the stage and created Romeo & Juliet.

The I Castelli range is produced from vines on the rolling hills surrounding these castles and includes this delicious Prosecco and a selection of still wines on page 54.

I Castelli Prosecco DOC | 46125215

The Glera grapes used to produce this high-quality Prosecco are sourced from I Castelli's best vineyards. By fermenting at low temperatures in stainless steel tanks, the crisp aromatic notes are preserved, giving a well-balanced wine with flavours of pear, citrus and some subtle honey notes.

Italy

Amarone is a unique style of Italian wine which has risen in prominence since the mid-20th century. Key to the style is the appassimento process where grapes are partially dried and raisined after harvest before pressing, concentrating the sugars and flavours. This results in powerful, full-bodied red wines with high levels of alcohol and rich ripe berry flavours. The pomace (grape skins and pulp) left over from Amarone production is recycled and used to produce Valpolicella Ripasso.

SARDINIA

The island of Sardinia, just west of Italy, has a very Mediterranean climate with hot, dry summers, often featuring periods of drought, followed by rainy winters.

The multi-award-winning Dolianova wines make up the Sardinia range and are grown in one of the sunniest parts of the island. Typical black grapes such as Cannonau and Monica are popularly grown in Sardinia, and its hot climate produces well-structured wines that feature plenty of body, black fruits, spice, and high alcohol content. Vermentino is considered the flagship white grape, producing crisp, refreshing wines with citrus and tropical fruits.

PORTUGAL

Portugal is believed to be one of the first wine-producing countries in the world and boasts an extensive variety of indigenous grapes.

For centuries Portugal has been best known for Port wines produced from grapes grown along the Douro valley and aged in barrel houses in Porto. Although these still represent an important part of the country's production, in recent years other regions have become better known.

Look out for structured red wines from the Douro or softer and more approachable examples from Dão and Lisboa. Vinho Verde is also popular. By harvesting grapes early, this white wine is made delightfully light, fresh and zesty with a gentle natural spritz.

AUSTRALIA

Following behind the USA as the second-largest New World wine producer, Australia has been incredibly successful at taking international grape varieties and crafting them into their own unique styles.

Wine has been produced in Australia for many years, often producing their own takes on classic Old World wines. Towards the end of the 20th century, export volumes ramped up as supermarket shelves bulged with fruit-driven reds and rich whites. Full-bodied and peppery Shiraz is still probably what Australia is best known for, but keep an eye out for zippy, dry Riesling, rounded, oaked Chardonnay, and structured and eucalyptus-scented Cabernet Sauvignon.

"The Growers Gate range is honest and down to earth showing rural excellence. A favourite is the Shiraz: deep red in colour with a purple hue, it combines vibrant blackberry and liquorice aromas with ripe berry flavours and soft tannins, producing a wine with richness and complexity."

NATURAL & ORANGE WINES

Over the past few years, consumers have become increasingly aware of and interested in these niche styles of wine. Although unusual, they're quite easy to understand:

Orange Wine: a wine made from white varieties that is made with extended skin contact, resulting in a white wine with more body and texture on the palate.

Natural Wine: although not formally defined, natural wines are generally made with limited intervention from the winemaker. This may include using naturally occurring yeasts and making minimal additions of preservatives like sulphites.

Logan wines are made with minimal intervention and extended skin contact and are tested before bottling to make sure they're stable and will taste delicious!

François Lurton is one of the pioneers of winemaking in the Uco Valley. The high-altitude vineyards with free draining soil are perfect for quality winemaking, ensuring low yielding vines with immensely concentrated fruit flavours. Using the expertise he gained from working at wineries across the world, he produces wines using environmentally friendly growing methods which are all certified organic.

GREECE

The wines of Greece, steeped in millennia of history and tradition, are renowned for their distinctive character and exceptional quality. This ancient wine-producing country, with a rich viticultural legacy dating back to antiquity, offers a diverse array of unique and vibrant wines.

Greece is one of the oldest wine-producing countries in the world. Attica is the largest wine-producing region within Greece and boasts an idyllic climate for grape ripening and highly fertile soils. It neighbours Athens, so it enjoys long, warm summers that are mellowed by the cool maritime influences and mild winters. Wines from the Gikas winery make up the range and they are made from largely indigenous grapes such as Assyrtiko, Malagouzia and Santovato. Assyrtiko is the most popular white grape with its bone-dry character, rounding minerality and crisp profile.

FORTIFIED & DESSERT

Fortified wines include Port and Sherry and are produced by fortifying the wine with grape spirit, raising the alcohol level. Depending on when in the winemaking process this is done, this can result in wines that are bone dry or with a delicious natural sweetness.

Dessert wines similarly are produced by a variety of processes that intensify their natural sweetness, making them the perfect partner for puddings or intensely savoury dishes like blue cheese.

These wines often last well after they're opened so can comfortably be offered by the glass, giving a perfect pair for the last course of a meal.

MIRADA ROSÉ

Historically Spanish rosé has often been made in quite full bodied styles, dark in colour and full of ripe berry fruit-flavours. In recent years lighter styles are being seen across the market to take advantage of the popularity of pale French rosés.

Hammeken Cellars produce this delicious example - this innovative wine producer works with wineries across Spain to produce modern styles of wine that meet the needs of international consumers.

Bobal is one of the most planted grape varieties in Spain and is used to produce this organic rosé. Pale in colour but still full of ripe fruit flavours and with a rounded mouthfeel, this wine is a fabulous alternative to some of the best-known Provence rosés.
